We may also store information about you using cookies (files which are sent by us to your computer or other access device), which we can access when you visit our site in the future. If you want to delete any cookies that are already on your computer, it will depend on the browser you are using; for example, in Internet Explorer you use the “delete temporary internet files” options and in Google Chrome you need to “empty the cache”.

If you want to stop cookies being stored on your computer in the future, please refer to your browser manufacturer’s instructions by clicking “Help” in your browser menu. Further information on deleting or controlling cookies is available at www.AboutCookies.org

When you visit our site, we may also log your IP address, a unique identifier for your computer or other access device.

COOKIES

We use cookies on this website to give you the best possible experience, allowing us to improve our site for our users.

There is no reason to be concerned about the privacy implications of the cookies we use. Any information gathered is completely anonymous and no private details are stored. However, we do recognise the importance of making you aware of them.

WHAT IS A COOKIE?

A cookie is a small text file, which asks permission to be placed on your browser or hard drive. The file is used to collate web traffic data, and in no way gives us access to your computer or any information about you, other than the data you choose to share with us.

Please note that if you do use your browser settings to block all cookies, you may not be able to access all or parts of our site. The functionality and viewing experience may also be impaired.

HYPERLINKS

Some of the website pages may contain hyperlinks to other sites, which are not under the control of Doswell Projects. As a result, Doswell Projects make no implied warranty concerning the content of those sites. The hyperlink does not imply an endorsement, authorization, sponsorship, or affiliation by Doswell Projects with the linked site, its owners, or providers.

The links are provided only as a convenience. Doswell Projects has not tested the information, software, and products at the linked site(s).
